

Searching for the Ideal of Theological Education:
*Remembering the Future

Namsoon Kang¹

I. Locating the Discourse and Practice of Theological Education: A Global Outlook

1. Discursive and Socio-political Trends and Its Implications
2. Crisis of Theological Higher Education
3. Tensions and Ambivalences in Theological Education

II. Theological Education as Remembering the Future

1. Daydreaming of World-to-Come
2. Double Duty of Theological Education to Tradition: Preservation and Innovation
3. Theological Education as Discourse and Practice of Radical Responsibility
4. Theological Education as a Teaching/Learning the Vocation of Representing
5. Disparity between the Ideal and the Empirical as a Prophetic Call

III. Reconstituting the Quality in Theological Education

1. Double Mode of Seeing
2. Hypersensitivity to the Marginalized
3. Educating Good-Questioner
4. Ever-Enlarging the Circle of Inclusion
5. Constructing New Religious Citizenship

IV. Theological Education of Border-Crossing: Theologians and Religious Leaders without *Passport

¹ Namsoon Kang is Professor of World Christianity and Religions at Brite Divinity School, Texas Christian University, USA. Before she joined Texas Christian University in 2006, she taught at Faculty of Divinity, University of Cambridge, UK, and Methodist Theological University, Korea. She has been actively involved in various international ecumenical organizations and movements, and was one of the plenary speakers at the WCC 9th Assembly in Porto Alegre, Brazil in 2006. She has given lectures and speeches in Hong Kong, Thailand, Jamaica, India, Korea, Japan, Philippine, Indonesia, Switzerland, United Kingdom, Germany, Greece, South Africa, Brazil, Canada, and the US. She studied in Korea, Germany, and the USA with her Ph.D. from Drew University, USA and is currently the president of WOCATI since 2008. Writing in both Korean and English, her most recent publications include Handbook of Theological Education in World Christianity (Co-edited), "Constructing Postcolonial Mission in World Christianity," "Out of Places: Asian Feminist Theology of Dislocation," and "Towards a Cosmopolitan Theology: Constructing Public Theology from the Future."